POLITICS IN THE SCHOOLS

THE taxpayers of the state are tired to exhaustion with the eternal bickering and vicious gossiping that has been busy with the University of Nevada. It is a clear case of politics in the school system and any effort that tends to eliminate the disease should be welcomed and applauded. The University of Nevada has a great future before it, but this future should not be clouded by self seeking politicians. If the assistance of the United States board of education can be enlisted for the purpose of solving the enigma of how to run the institution for the benefit of the pupils the aid will be welcomed. The public school system has fallen into a rut through lack of competent management, but the reforms should take in the control and direction of the schools before trying to find fault with the execution. So far as the university is concerned the fact that the regents are averse to publicity and refrain from taking the public into their confidence should stimulate an inquiry into their official conduct. The matters of traveling expenses and employment of lecturers from outside points for the advancement of political principles, should be sifted closely so the people may know how much this sort of business comes under the head of the university proper. Let there be a thorough housecleaning at once.

LET TROOPS TAKE THE MONEY

A BILL to provide for an appropriation of $2,000,000 to provide food for the destitute in Mexico has been introduced in Congress. This is another sop thrown to that arrant knave of a Carranza. Not satisfied with knocking down to the bewhiskered villain and supplying him with ammunition and firearms, the United States is requested to send millions that may be confiscated and applied to raising fresh recruits to cut the throats of gallant United States soldiers. If there is any money going over the line let it be the money expended for troops and supplies to pacify the country and restore order. The administration is whipping the devil around a stump by consuming countless yards of red tape to reach a point that the military could attain while the puppets at Washington are writing a single conciliatory note. The European press is filled with all kinds of sarcastic references to the Man-Afraid-of-His-Shadow policy of the powers at Washington and the allusions are not of a complimentary character.

BILLBOARD PUBLICITY

THE United States Supreme court has ruled that the billposters of the United States are in a combine in restraint of trade and that all acts of the members are without sanction of law. This affirms the opinion of a score of state courts which had been the battleground of bitter fights against the men who believe the only way to advertise is to make the advertisement as offensive as possible to the neighborhood where it is displayed. For the past twenty years the chief cities of the country have been engaged in a warfare against the billboard nuisance, but every effort to dispossess the trust has always proved futile. The failure was due largely to the fact that the billboard men were in a national compact which fought every local case with funds furnished by the national organization and brought such pressure to bear and were able to protract litigation that no final ruling could be obtained. Now that the Supreme court has decreed that the men of paste are in an illegal pact it is natural to infer that with the withdrawal of national support local membership will disintegrate. The billboard has been permitted to exist through a conspiracy tantamount to blackmail. It is not a good means of advertising as the Associated Advertising Clubs of America have gone on record as favoring the use of newspaper space exclusively in preference to other catchpenny devices. The best evidence in favor of the newspaper is furnished by John Wanamaker, the father of department stores and the author of scientific advertising. In an address to the advertising men he sets forth his career in the following incisive manner:

"When this little store closed its doors on its first day of business away back in 1861 the sum of $24.67 was found in the old fashioned till under the counter; the sixty-seven cents was left there for making change next morning and the $24 was taken out by the founder and spent with the newspapers, which were asked simply to say that the new store was open and doing business, and had a good stock of goods useful to the people.

"Our little allowance of advertising money went to the newspapers then, as it goes, nearly altogether, today, because, if ever I have a monument for finding out that, the only advertising of direct and instant benefit to both merchant and customer, is in the daily newspaper. All others are vanity and vexation of spirit. To have learned this fact has greatly helped my enterprises, though often there has been serious discomfort in saying so publicly and in breaking away from posters, leaflets and weeklies.

"Throughout 55 years of experience we have not been able to discover that there was any other rightful function of advertising than to do just one thing—to inform the public that the merchant had brought in certain goods, with a proper description of them and what the honest prices were."

Tomorrow is the fourteenth of July, a date that corresponds to the Fourth in the United States, since it marks the fall of the bastille and the removal of the last monarch from French soil. If there ever was a chance for the nation to administer a decisive blow, that will come on the glorious anniversary, for it is a psychological condition that national festivals fire the blood of troops and incite the most despondent to deeds of special valor.

Politicians do not like the primary law and, according to reports from Carson City, a test case is mooted. It is evident that the politicians are peeved over some features of the enactment and that makes it a cinch that the law is all right. It is too much on the square to suit that class.

If a politician seeking re-election is not true to his immediate friends and political workers, what chance have the people at large to secure honest representation? Incidentally, what chance has such a politician to be re-elected?

ELIJAH THE SECOND STIRS UP NIGERIA

PRETENDING CHRISTIAN STIRS UP THE NATIVE POPULATION WITH BAD RESULTS

(By Associated Press.)

LONDON, July 13.—Nigeria has trouble on its hands in the person of a negro who styles himself Elijah the Second. Ostensibly a convert to Christianity, he has cut adrift from the missionaries and is running a spurious form of Christianity on his own account. According to an official who has reached England from the region where his converts are most numerous they already number more than a million out of the 17,000,000 natives in Nigeria.

He claims to work miracles and does not even draw the line at raising people from the dead. He finds a particularly profitable source of revenue in selling water which he pretends to have endowed with magic healing powers.

But what is causing the authorities most concern is the new doctrine which the black Elijah is proclaiming. It is that the blacks are now the "chosen people"; that they are destined to oust the whites and inherit the choice places of the earth.

SMALL WHIRLPOOL PRESENTS A THRILLING SPECTACLE

This morning at 10:30 o'clock a small whirlpool or dust cloud came careening up from the flat to the west of Tonopah in a manner that attracted general attention. It was of the shape of a perfect cylinder that reached from the earth to the sky. The course was in a direct line almost until Oddie avenue was reached, when the dust column dissolved and the spectacle was dissipated.

RED CROSS BARRED BY FRENCH ARMY

AUTHORITIES ASSERT SUPPLIES MAY BE USED OTHER THAN FOR USEFUL PURPOSES

(By Associated Press.)

PARIS, July 13.—The French authorities have refused to allow free passage into Germany of American Red Cross sanitary equipment and supplies notwithstanding the society's claim that such passage is justified by article 29 of the declaration of London and article 16 of the Geneva convention of 1906.

The French authorities hold that article 29 of the declaration confines itself to asserting that "material exclusively for the use of sick and wounded is not to be classed as contraband of war," but that these words do not prevent such material from being captured and confiscated for violation of blockade nor from being held up on the way. Moreover, they add, the declaration of London was never ratified and therefore has no obligatory force.

As to article 16 of the Geneva convention the French authorities now intimate that, considering German methods of conducting war, they see no reason for departing from their prohibition of May, 1916, against sending any goods whatever into Germany, so cannot make any exception in favor of the American Red Cross society, more especially as the supplies "end by reprovisioning Germany with raw material that is often easy to recover after usage and of which the German government has pressing need for its military operations."
